Before Curtain Time . . .

MR. J. H. WRIGHT, Principal

As the record of our school year begins, we welcome our new and already beloved principal, Mr. J. H. Wright. His is the role of capable stage manager, whose job is demanding and complex, and to whom we look in every matter of importance. He has stepped into his role with supreme skill, thereby demonstrating again his limitless versatility. We appreciate his friendliness, his smile, and, most of all, the enthusiasm which accompanies his interest in our student activities. He is never the impersonal executive, but always the guiding and co-operative fellow worker and companion, ready with constructive criticism, a well planned suggestion, and a helping hand. We hope that his years to come, here, at Lamar, will bring him much joy, and that he will become an even greater part of the great spirit that is Lamar.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Our thanks to Mrs. Alice Woodruff and Mrs. Rena Prim of RENALICE MARIONETTES and to Nat Turner, student photographer, for their cooperation in the creation of our division sheets.

Those who guide and direct the daily performances on this, our much loved stage . . . Behind the scenes they plan, supervise, and bring into reality each act of this great production of our years together here at Lamar.

Our Stage . . .

Since the stage governs the quality, the scope, and the freedom in presentation, we at Lamar may feel confident and proud in this respect. Our beautiful stage with its well equipped laboratories and shops, its carefully planned auditorium and visual aid facilities, its "magic" intercommunication system, its new and sparkling gymnasium, its beautifully landscaped and cared for grounds, as well as its distinctively attractive bas-relief map, never fails to strike a spark of love and pride in the heart of each student. This degree of perfection is reached through the concerted effort of the student body and the intense pride in our stage is one of the forces which unite the students in cooperation with the excellent and fair-minded administrative staff and faculty. The beauties and advantages of our stage are not the only fields in which we glory. The reputation and fame which are synonymous with our name also fill us with pride and devotion. We are victorious and acclaimed not only on the athletic fields, but also in such areas as speech, drama, literary talent, and the fine arts, as well as in the general field of high scholastic achievement. Both organizations and individual students are continually bringing more honor to Lamar's name.

Fame and beauty however, are not, in themselves, enough to assure the success and high standing of the school. In addition, there is an intangible "something" which, although hard to define or pin down, is much more evident in its absence. Perhaps, it is just school spirit, but at Lamar, there seems to be a feeling much broader and richer than the usual sense of that term implies. This is evident in the halls, in classroom discussions, and in the lunch-lines, as well as at football or basketball games and pep rallies. It is even found in the name of our yearbook since Orenda means Great Spirit. It stays with a student wherever he goes, long after graduation, and out into the college and business world. It is similar to an unspoken pledge of honor, loyalty, and trustworthiness, but still more broad and inclusive. Perhaps it is best exemplified in the words and meaningful theme of the Alma Mater. These phrases which fill us with pride and respect embody all of this special quality which is unique here . . . Hail to Lamar . . . Alma Mater dear . . . Sing her joyful praise . . . Sound it far and near . . . Rally around her banner . . . We will never fail . . . So to Lamar, Alma Mater . . . Sing hail . . . Hail . . . Hail!

Our Directors . . .

The directors of a production have a job which demands greatly diversified skills. Ability to lead and to generate enthusiasm is essential, but a willingness to work along together with subordinates and not to take the role of the sidelines-overseer is the truest mark of the good executive. These qualities are found in abundance in our administrators. Here at our own school we find a group of outstanding and capable directors. Our Principal, Mr. Wright, and his able assistant, Mr. Madden, are always helpful and interested in the school. In addition, the officers of our Parent-Teacher Association and the Lamar Activities Club are also eager and willing to help and guide us. It is through their untiring efforts, careful planning, and extreme administrative skill that we have gained so many advantages, privileges, and exceptionally fine facilities. A strong, forceful, and enthusiastic directive staff is the backbone of any production, and with such an outstanding one, we can attain nothing less than success.

PRINCIPAL J. H. WRIGHT

Mr. Madden, our Assistant Principal, contributes immeasurably to the smooth running of the school. His duties encompass a wide field, but his skills and talents are even more varied. An evidence of his remarkable personality is the fact that although he is in charge of discipline, which is no pleasant task, he is admired and trusted by all students. Then too, he is on hand to consult with and help Mr. Wright. Truly, friendly Mr. Madden is indispensable, and is a much loved and respected figure in Lamar's halls. He is one of the guiding and influencing factors which will be remembered by all for many years to come.

MR. JESSE MADDEN
Assistant Principal

SUPERINTENDENT W. E. MORELAND

We are very fortunate to have a superior Education Department, which supervises our school life so compentently and democratically. From the highest administrative posts on down, leaders may be found who are cooperative and thoroughly interested in their jobs and in us. At the downtown office, Mr. Moreland, our Superintendent, Mr. Webb, Assistant Superintendent, who is in charge of all high schools, and Mr. James Delmar, President of the Board of Education, are all hard at work, constantly planning and devoting valuable time and effort to the entire educational department of the Houston Public School System. Under them, the department supervisors function. The division of responsibility makes it possible for these department heads to do a very thorough job. Each one is a capable expert in his field and this makes for greater efficiency, more expert guidance, and more effective execution of plans and programs. Through these supervisors, we obtain much of our modern equipment, as well as our up-to-date curriculum and textual material.

Through our Parent-Teacher Association and the Lamar Activities Club, we obtain many wonderful gifts. The Parent-Teacher Association is responsible for the long-needed fans in the cafeteria, the milk bar on the first floor, the lovely tea given each fall to honor our faculty, and of course, the Open House at which parents and teachers meet to cement the important relations between family and school. The Lamar Activities Club makes it possible for us to follow our football team to the games on trains and busses, and to enter speech tournaments over the state. Through their outstanding officers both of these organizations work to make Lamar better and better.

Registrar

Right: Mrs. Ruth H. Leavell
Dean

The Puppeteers are those who actually manipulate the puppets; they govern each action and gesture. Our office staff and faculty do an admirable job in this field. Each one holds a position which is essential to the mechanics and smooth running of the production. It is through Mrs. Ruth Leavell, the Dean, that Lamarites check in and out of school; in her office absentee reports are tallied, and messages are received for students. Mrs. Edith Boren and Mrs. Gwendolyn Koch, the Registrars, have the demanding job of keeping all permanent records, of sending grade transcripts and applications to colleges for seniors, and of checking class standings. Mrs. Alice Harrell, in the main office, acts as Mr. Wright's secretary, and runs the general school business and correspondence. With the able assistance of Mrs. Lorena Kobs and Mrs. Isabel Peden, the Clerks, such affairs as the balancing of money transfers, the safe-keeping of funds of school organizations, and the care of general records are carried on. Mrs. Peden supervises the cafeteria cashiers, as well, and Mrs. Kobs is in charge of all mimeographing. In the Guidance Office, Mrs. Ula Hennes and Mrs. Rose B. Goodrich are always on hand to solve problems concerning four year plans. Here, a complete file of college bulletins and requirements may be found, while all scholarships and applications go through this office, too. Also, important test records are kept on file here, and this busy place is responsible for administering and tabulating the results of the Otis Test. In each office, some of the duties are taken over by students. Each office is equally valuable, and without any one of them, this school could not function.

The faculty puppeteers have great influence on the cast, for through the student-teacher relationship much is accomplished. In the English Department, under Miss Hazelle McCarty, a student receives training in the appreciation of both American and English literature. Grammar and creative writing are also stressed. The Mathematics Department stresses practical application and the reasoning behind formulas and methods. Algebra, both plane and solid geometry, trigonometry, as well as commercial mathematics are offered. Mrs. Hazel Brinton heads this department. The Science Department offers subjects to interest all students. Sophomores take the course in biology, while Juniors and Seniors can avail themselves of fields of chemistry and physics. This department, under Mr. B. Kent, is one of our most up-to-date. Miss Margaret Young is in charge of the Foreign Language Department. In addition to offering Spanish and French, Lamar has the distinction of being the only public school in the city to offer fourth year Latin. The Social Science Department, under Mr. Lee Duggan, offers American history, civics, economics, and social problems. The Music Department, under Mr. Lee Keding, is one of the finest in the state. In addition to a superb R.O.T.C. Band and a versatile Orchestra, several choruses make music. The Commercial Department headed by Mrs. T. J. Rowzee, the Art Department under Miss Norma Henderson, the Home Economics and Industrial Departments under Mrs. Videlle Wilson and Mr. Arthur Herring respectively, and the Physical Education Departments under Mr. Bob Schulze and Mrs. Kitty Lowry, round out the well planned curriculum.

SENIOR LIFE . . .

The mid-term class' Senior Prom is in full swing. Jack Spinks, Betty Jo Schroeter, Taylor Smith, Celia Posey, and Mike Schumacher, are enjoying this one night in a million! Sharon Christie, Phil Childress, Sinclair Wells, and Max Dreyling pose for the "standard" cap and gown picture. But those grins are not posed. They are like those in the heart of every graduating senior! The mid-term graduating class again! Jimmy Hurley, Kent Smith, Michael O'Brien, Duncan Simmons, and Jack Casmir "Make Merry" in the lunchroom on cap and gown day. Lamar's football widows share the fun in a bus all their own. These gals, marked by their red and blue letter sweaters, don't miss a game. Books and lunches, gossip and geometry, are all mixed in delightful proportions in the lunchroom. Caught 'midst sandwiches and studies are Diana Reisen, Dru Carothers, Linda Stone, Anne Eastham, and Jerilyn Rice.

JUNIOR LIFE . . .

and Jen Tomlinson for an after school spin in his jalopy. Last year's winners Walter Fondren and Alice Cowan hand over the Ramal and Tawasi Cups to this year's Most Outstanding Juniors—Jim Winn and Kay Brazelton. Juniors Walter Moore, Steven Oaks, Sally Kate Marshall, George Conrad, Una Lynn Mattiza, and Paula Ragusa enjoy the usual drugstore malts after school. At an informal party Juniors Charles Dutton, Shirley Zapp, Bobby Roberts, Kay Linda Knox, Rufus Hayes, Bobby Meyer, Claudette Webster and Jean Elliott watch Sheppie Hinkle display his skill at the pool table.

SOPHOMORE LIFE . . .

Mirabeau members conduct a thorough "sightseeing" tour of Lamar for the benefit of low sophomores. Kay Brazelton stops to let her group of new Redskins admire one of the many stuffed trophy cases on the reservation. "Do I have to take English III?" Four year plan problems are the most common perplexities for harried sophs. Here Mrs. Hennes, guidance advisor, helps students unravel the numerous snarls. Allison Allen, Martha Craig, Mary Claire Peden, Martha Davis, and Ann Allen soon learned the advantage of being first in the typical 3:01 rush for the front doors.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The right to student government through elected representatives is one of the privileges which Lamarites consider most wonderful. In this manner, the students have a part in the running of every phase of school activities, and are able to present ideas and problems to a group which represents the whole student body. The Student Council performs many services for the school. Through each member the sale of student directories is carried on, and the Council's Directory Committee works long and hard on compiling and promoting the directory. The sale of Orendas, the yearbooks, is also carried on through the council. The representatives in the homerooms promote the sale of these also, and the handling of such large amounts of money and such complicated records is no small task in itself. The Student Council representatives also work on the Book Week fund collections. This is a great service to the library and to the student body. The Student Council conducts all school-wide elections, from May Queen to class officers. The Election Committee, headed by Carol Whitehurst, who is assisted by Jean Elliott, Edward Louis, and Dan Jones, is in charge of all these elections; it is this group which tallies and certifies the election results. Much of the council's business is carried on by committees. The Organization Committee, made up of Sammie O'Kelley, Tommy Lu Storm, and headed by its chairman, Ewing Werlein, has the job of approving the constitutions for all newly formed school affiliated organizations. This entails careful study of each charter, and this service is typical of the many which the council gives the school.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Health Committee works with the school nurse, Miss Flora Burghdorf, to improve health conditions at school. The group, with Miss Burghdorf's help has improved conditions in the lunchroom and in the girls' and boys' dressing room and shower-locker areas. Patti McCall heads this committee, made up of Bobby Stillwell and Adrienne Craddock. The Bulletin Board Committee, under Harvin Moore, Chairman, keeps the material on the bulletin boards current. It is responsible for removing all old material, as well as for checking each article to be sure that it has Mr. Wright's stamp of approval. Cathy Hammerich and Carol Kinney serve in this capacity. This year the Student Council is awarding the Angelo Vasos Sportsmanship trophy to an outstanding athlete. Given in memory of Angelo Vasos, an excellent student and athlete himself, the award will be presented each spring from now on. The area between the faculty and the Student Council is spanned by the Advisory Council, an auxiliary of the Student Council itself. Made up of students and teachers, the council is: Miss Drew Staggs, Miss Helen Weinberg, Mrs. Elanor T. Huddleston, Mrs. Ruth Leavell, Mrs. Ella S. Porter, Mr. J. H. Wright, Ben Orman, Carol Whitehurst, Cathy Hammerich, Bobby Stillwell, Ann Sheppard, Anne Doak, Annita Fite, Carrie Holt, Jim Winn, Barbara Farren, Diane Roshton, Fred Hofheinz, and Katherine Moore. Officers are: Ben Orman, President; Carol Whitehurst, Vice President; Cathy Hammerich, Secretary; Bobby Stillwell, Treasurer. Mrs. Ella S. Porter is the sponsor.

COACHES

The coaching makes a team. Mr. Bob Schulze, head football coach, is also in charge of the tennis team, and is successful in both. Since his resignation, Mr. Fred Pepper has taken over as top football man, and will continue his baseball. He will be assisted in football by Mr. Bert Kivell, Mr. Coy Stewart, Mr. Harold Tate, and Mr. Harold Johnson, the "B" team coaches. Mr. Kivell is also head track man. Mr. Donald Longcope is "A" team basketball coach as well as head of golf, and Mr. J. B. Millsap works with the "B" basketball team. Mr. Ned Gochenour is swimming coach.

STATE CHAMPS . . .

On a cold, drizzling Saturday afternoon, Lamar's team captured the State title by defeating powerful Odessa, 33-7. Odessa's first score brought fear to the souls of Lamar's fans, but in the second period, Lamar began to sparkle, and the tide was turned from here on out. The skillful running of Walter Fondren and Mickey Smith's spectacular completion of that all-important 28 yard pass will not be forgotten soon, and the crowd, that afternoon, saw history being made. In the last half, victory was sure, and every member of the entire squad had an opportunity to play, a supreme moment in each boy's life. State championships come once in a lifetime, if at all, and this one belongs to a hard-working and deserving group of boys. Captured here on these pages are a few glimpses of the beautiful playing and the supreme glory and joy in a great victory. The faces of ecstatic teenagers, brimming with happiness and pride in a combination of intoxicating power and of a team, tired, happy and a little unbelieving, are set down here.

A football season which climaxes in a state championship is the dream of each coach and player. This dream came true, this year, and along with Houston's first State Champions came thrills and unforgettable moments. No one who sat in Rice Stadium on that cold, rainy Saturday can ever forget the glory in Lamar's defeating mighty Odessa. The B team was on top too, in winning the City Championship. Lamar made up the greatest part of the All-City teams, with Coulter, Bright, Bergstrom, Fondren, Smith, and Spinks on top, while Walter Fondren was chosen most valuable player in the city, as well as being presented the award for being best player in the state. The Reagan game will live as a memorial to Angelo Vasos, whose untimely death saddened his teammates. Then too, the announcement of Mr. Schulze's resignation cast a cloud of gloom over the football banquet. In his speech presenting the car to each of the three head coaches, Mr. E. M. Smith, president of the Lamar Activities Club, spoke again of the fact that we will never forget Mr. Schulze as a coach, a great sport, and a wonderful person. Mr. Schulze will be replaced by Mr. Fred Pepper, who has proved himself to be worthy of the position by his past coaching record.

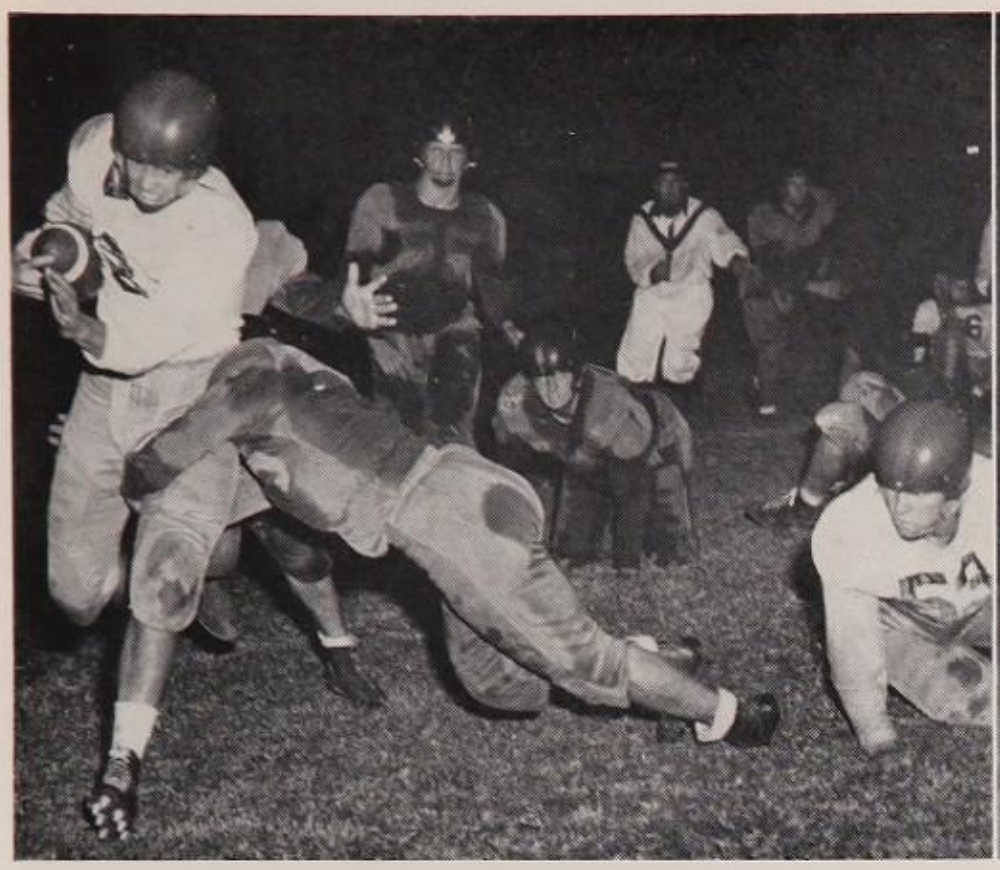
Trainer Gene Antill, an indispensable member of the athletic staff, stops while taping an ankle—one of his many jobs. His smile is famous, and no one is more popular with the team. Lamar feels lucky to have quiet, efficient Gene, best trainer in the city.

Dickie Bergstrom, on the move again this time against Port Arthur. It was hard hitting like this that gave Lamar the victory by one penetration.



Tom Burke, Lamar's defensive ace, here makes a short gain against Dallas.

Jack Cox, guard, leads Wilbur Morris, back, for a first down.

Managers Jerry Passmore, Tex Morgan, and David Lee stop in the midst of their numerous duties—taking care of all of the squad equipment, from shoulder pads to practice jersies, and from shoes and socks to helmets, keeps all three boys busy at school and games.

In traditional rivalry, Bergstrom crashes through Reagan's tough line for one of Lamar's touchdowns, as Reagan men stand by, unable to halt Lamar.

BAYTOWN

Champs from the Start

The Lamar team presented Baytown the gift of its worst defeat in fourteen years. The Redskins began the season in style, beating Baytown 34 to 0.

ADAMSON

Inhospitable Hosts

It was after Lamar's spectacular showing in defeating Adamson 47 to 0 that Lamar was rated "number 1" team. 526 yards were gained by Lamar.

HARLINGEN

The Long Trip Home

In a disappointing tie, Harlingen held off Lamar to a hard fought 7-7 on an 85 yard pass interception at Harlingen in the Valley.

TEMPLE

Mr. Schulze Goes Home

Mr. Schulze celebrated his homecoming to Temple by defeating his home town 40 to 0—a glorious comeback after Harlingen's disappointing tie.

BALL

A Big Rally Wins

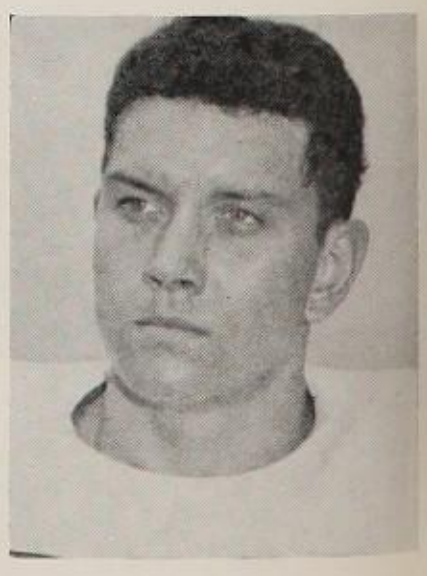
Fighting back and overcoming Ball of Galveston's half-time lead of 14-6, the Redskins pushed on to win by a 33 to 14 final score. Here, team play was decisive.

MILBY

A Good District Start

Lamar's buffalo hunt brought home the first district victory. Fondren's three touchdowns and nine successive conversions made the final score 63-13.

GLEN SEVERS
Guard—64



REAGAN

For Angelo

The team, shocked by Angelo's death, played the game as a living memorial to him. With this as an incentive, the Big Red moved to victory—48 to 13.

AUSTIN

Almost too Close

The inspired ponies showed spirit, and Lamar, without Fondren, fought hard. Wilson's fumble recovery and Smith's score led to the 20-13 win.

JEFF DAVIS

Panthers Feel Our Strength

Big Red depended on reserve strength since injuries were numerous. Led by Burke, Bergstrom, and Morris, Lamar came through with a 34-25 win.

SAN JAC

Redskins Win District

In rain and cold, Lamar rallied from a discouraging half-time score, to conquer their greatest rivals by a decisive 29-14—winning the city title.

PORT ARTHUR

The Yellow Jackets Are Stung

At Port Arthur, the score was too close for comfort. Nevertheless, Big Red rallying from behind was the victor on penetrations.

WACO

We Advance to Finals

In a hard fought defensive battle, Lamar protected its lead after Burke's spectacular punt return. With Waco defeated, 12 to 7, the next step was state!

BASKETBALL

In the 1953-1954 basketball season, the Redskins started off with a bang. Their impressive early season record put them in position as strong contenders for the city title, but injuries to valuable players a little later in the season handicapped the squad. The season opened with a second place position in the Beaumont Tournament and a third place in the Nacogdoches Tournament. Then the Big Red advanced to the semi-finals in the Houston Junior Chamber of Commerce Tournament. The squad, fired by eleven returning lettermen, was well on its way to bigger and better titles. However, mid term graduation brought the loss of Willard Tinsley and Lynn Carter, two top members. This blow was followed by injuries to Walter Fondren and Tom Burke also outstanding performers. Nevertheless, with these severe handicaps, the Redskins lost only to Milby in the first round of city competition. In the second round, Lamar fell victim to Jeff Davis and Reagan, and finished in second place, with a 7-3 city record, and an equally impressive 18 to 6 season record. The A Team works under its coach, Mr. Donald Longscope. The B Team, coached by Mr. J. B. Millsap, tied for the city championship with Austin, with an 11 to 1 record.

BASEBALL

Lamar's baseball outlook for this season seems excellent, and the Redskins should be strong contenders for the city championship. Last spring the team finished second to Reagan in city competition, and only four members of that team have graduated. The greatest loss for Lamar was the death of Angelo Vasos in the fall. Angelo's skill on the diamond will be missed, but his wonderful high spirit and friendly personality are an even greater loss. The team's thirteen returning lettermen are its greatest asset, while the usual number of recruits adds strength. Mr. Fred Pepper will retain his post as head coach, and he will be assisted capably by Mr. Coy Stewart, a recent addition to the Redskin coaching staff.

TRACK

In the first year of coaching by Mr. Bert Kivell, the 1953 Lamar track team took the city championship. This year's outlook is hopeful, yet the team has had a handicap. The loss of many important members of the 1953 team is a blow, and this year's chances for another championship are consequently questionable. Nevertheless, three of last spring's lettermen are returning. These are: sprinter, Jim Johnston; half-miler, C. B. Stephenson; and pole vaulter, Larry Lester. Then, too, a large number of boys are out for track, giving Mr. Kivell the assurance of strength in numbers. Strong competition is assured, as is an experienced coaching staff. These can bring the team through—a winner.

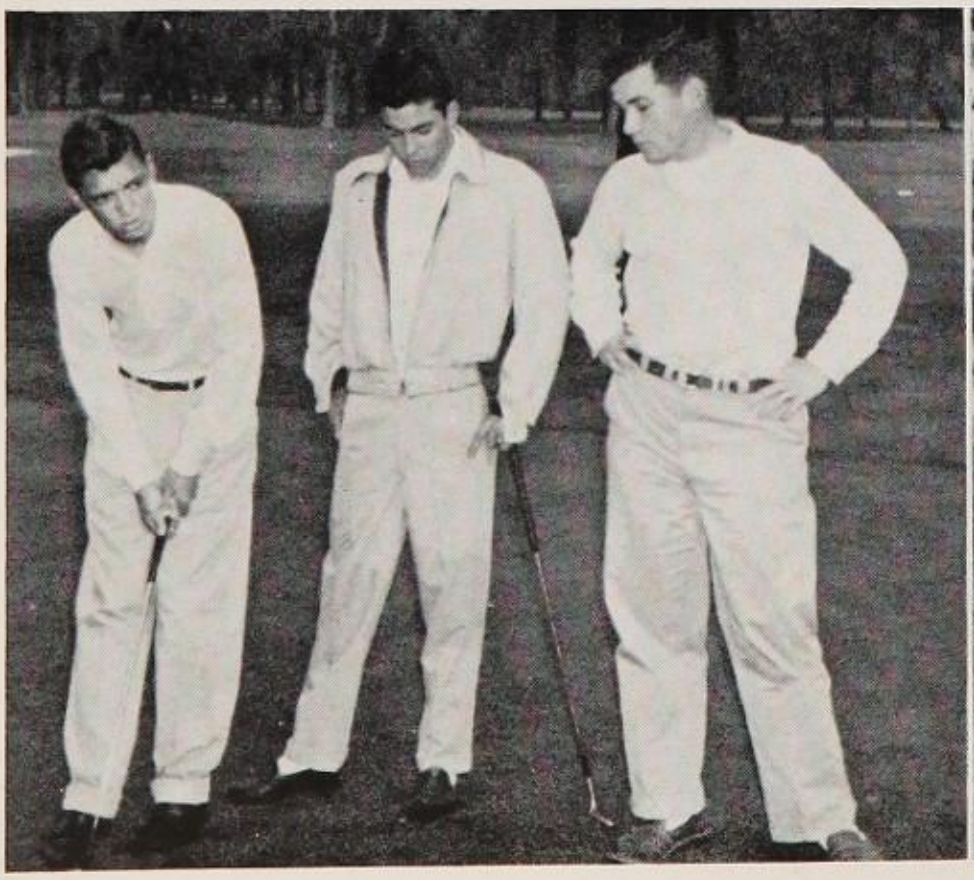
TENNIS

Mr. Calvin Gentry, the new tennis coach, inherited a team with excellent possibilities. Garth Carroll, city singles champion, and city doubles finalists, Keith Miller and Malcolm Baker, make this team's prospects bright. Dave Daviss and Bobby Johnson add additional strength.

GOLF

Mr. Donald B. Longcope's state champion golfers are expecting another championship season this year. This expectation is backed up by a strong and experienced team, which is composed of John Vennard, Forrest Hodges, Jim Greenwood, Monty Demaret, Bill Lacy, and Bobby Buddendorf.

Golfers Jim Greenwood, Van Wilson, and Bill Lacy study a put on the ninth green.



Monty Demaret and John Vennard watch Forrest Hodges tee off on the fairway.

SWIMMING

In true Lamar style, Lamar's swimming team won the state championship for the fourth straight year, thereby making the Redskins state swimming champs for the fourth straight year, and giving them the city championship for the eighth straight year. Needless to say, this record is well deserved by the hard-working swimming coach and team. The 1954 swimming season should bring a repeat performance of 1953's brilliant record since the return of ten lettermen makes Lamar's prospects exceptionally bright. The team's able and experienced coach, Mr. Ned Gochenour, can look for nothing short of success with such returning lettermen as Chuck Price, Allan Muller, Jimmy Ebanks, Larry Matlock, Stanley Janecka, Dick McKeever, Tracy Word and Casey Rubey and divers Jim Winn and Buddy Hood as the foundations for this year's team.

The girls' sports organization, Cherokee, is unique in that every girl is automatically a member upon enrolling in Lamar. The club was formed in lieu of the usual drill squad. The purpose of Cherokee is to promote athletics for girls by making available a program of sports, varied enough for each girl to find an interest. Archery, golf, badminton, tennis, volleyball, bowling, swimming, basketball, softball, and modern dancing are offered. Each sport and tournament is under the direction of a sports head, elected by the girls. Through intramural elimination tournaments and, of course, the interschool competitions, each girl's sportsmanship and sports ability is emphasized and enlarged. The members of Cherokee are famous for their wholesome attitude toward athletic competition. Points are awarded to all participants, and winners receive bonuses. At the year's end, the Cherokee Rose Award is presented to each girl who has entered into at least five sports. First, second, and third prize bracelets are presented to the girls who have accumulated the highest number of points during the school year, and a three year bracelet is awarded to the girl who has made the most points in her three years in Cherokee. This year's officers are: Carol Whitehurst, President; Patti McCall, Vice President; Edith Elliott, Secretary. Although all of the physical education teachers are Cherokee sponsors, Mrs. May Bourgeois is the sponsor in charge. She is assisted by Mrs. Kitty Lowry, Miss Elise Hawkins, Mrs. Frances Rockwell, and Miss Helen Dvoracek.

Instruction and meets are supervised by sports heads: Candy Walling, Bowling; Anne Lewis, Badminton; Betty Pat Clark, Golf; Martha Mahoney, Modern Dancing.

Miss Patsy Heard, Editor
1954 ORENDA
Lamar Senior High School
Houston 6, Texas

Dear Miss Heard:

It was a pleasure to judge the beauty section of the 1954 ORENDA.

A pleasure—but also a most difficult task as all of the contestants were most attractive and it was very hard to make a choice among them. As you know, it is not easy to make a selection from photographs alone as true beauty comes from an interplay of outer and inner charm. If I had been able to meet and talk with each contestant individually, I would have been better able to determine their real potentialities.

My choice was based on (a) features and contours of their faces, (b) alertness and apparent intelligence and (c) feminine charm. The photographs are numbered in the order of my selection.

Congratulations to the winners; all of the contestants; to you and the staff of the 1954 ORENDA!

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

John Robert Powers

Membership in Arrowhead is the highest honor one can attain at Lamar. For this club, which is unique here, is the honor society for those students who have at least a 4.6 average. Also one must be a leader and an asset to the school as well as having honor or service points. The group sells pencils, manila folders, and book covers, which have helped many a student in a moment of dire need. Each year at Graduation, Arrowhead presents a silver cup to its most valuable member. The winner in 1953 was Allie Kelley. The officers are: Harrison Wagner, President; Patsy Heard, Vice President; Ann Farmer, Secretary; Tim Stevens, Treasurer; Anne Lawhon, Attendance Clerk. NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Membership in Lamar's W. J. Moyes Chapter of the National Honor Society is awarded only to the top five percent of the high junior, low senior, and high senior classes. Applicants must have at least a 4.2 grade average for all full credit courses as well as a minimum of two "G's" in conduct. These, however, must be accompanied by a substantial number of points awarded for service and leadership. The group's purpose is to encourage high standards of scholarship, leadership, and service. The officers chosen for this year are: Frank Keith, President; Kathleen Finke, Vice President; Anne Doak, Secretary; and Gloria Hoffman, Treasurer. The Honor Society is sponsored by Mr. J. Herbert Wright, the principal.

A top-notch production requires more than a good plot, well-executed scenery, and perfect props. It needs an able director, a well-written script, a skillful casting director, as well as the vital business manager, who is the middleman between the backers and the production crew. Each day at sixth period this group works toward the presentation of "1953-54 at Lamar." Patsy Heard, the producer-editor, Above: Tim Stevens, the sports editor, spends long hours running down good action shots for this section of the book. Tim's other duties include mounting a large portion of the Orenda pictures.

Below: Alice Cowan, the club editor, gets help from her assistant, Sally Kate Marshall, as she checks through her records of appointments for those club pictures.

Kim Kimball, business manager, checks with the engraver concerning the details of the contract. This is just one of Kim's numerous duties to which he attends with characteristic skill and dispatch. Then, too, he helps the literary staff when necessary, again demonstrating his versatility. Without Kim's remarkable ability and his engaging personality, the Orenda would not be what it is.

The business staffers in full swing . . . Ben Orman, standing, Nancy Miller, left, and Cathy Hammerich happily count the number of Orendas which have been sold.

is assisted by a staff whose jobs range from script writing to scenery designing. The business staff works with the backers, oops—students, and with the stage managers, the engraver, and the printer. Under the guidance of the sponsors, Miss Drew Black Staags and Miss Helen Weinberg, the production is at last presented to its audience for final approval.

Patsy Heard, Orenda editor, exhibits the radiant smile which has pulled her staff through difficulties and deadlines. Patsy's endless patience and unselfishness, and her ever-cheerful acceptance of responsibilities have brought her through this year. The ups and downs, the many puzzles, the pre-deadline midnight gatherings, and the millions of errands were never drudgery because of Patsy's guidance and level-headed perception.

Center: In usual order: We catch Sadie Fuller and Julianne Lay, the Lancer's hard working co-associate editors, beaming proudly over their finished handiwork.

LANCER

The Lamar Lancer is one of the top ranking high school newspapers in the state. This bi-weekly paper is put out by an able staff composed of students from journalism classes who have shown an interest in the writing field or who have done outstanding work. The Lancer staff works to inform students of school activities, to promote support of all community functions, and to entertain while educating, and students will agree that this is accomplished. The routine of working on the Lancer includes all phases of newspaper work. Examples are: reporting, typing copy, "making-up" pages, photographing, copy-reading, and, of course, the last step, proof-reading. In order to be a member of the

QUILL AND SCROLL

Membership in Quill and Scroll is the goal of every high school journalist. In order to attain this honor, one must have done superior work in some phase of journalism as well as having a high scholastic average and an excellent recommendation from a faculty advisor. The W. J. Moyes Chapter was organized here at Lamar in 1946, and its membership is taken from the outstanding workers of the staffs of the two student publications, The Orenda and The Lancer. The organization strives to encourage journalists in individual accomplishment as well as stressing the importance of achievement in fields allied to journalism. Quill and Scroll members work to raise journalistic standards. At the banquet, held each fall, the importance of a high ethical code for journalism is stressed. Sensationalism and gossip are below all of the principles for which this, the national high school journalistic organization, stands. The officers are: Patsy Heard, President; Gail Woltman, Vice President; Judy Bower, Secretary; Anne Lawhon, Treasurer. Miss Louise Fuller is the sponsor.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

The Junior Red Cross chapter at Lamar is constantly working with the Red Cross Council for veterans here at home, and for children in war-torn Europe. The group has sponsored a drive, here at school for old comic books, "Who-dunits," and magazines, which the veterans may read for amusement to shorten the long days in the hospital. Each Christmas the Junior Red Cross fills countless boxes for children in Europe. The group sees to it that in each box goes at least one toy in addition to woolen caps or scarves. Lamar's representatives attend the bi-weekly meetings of the Junior Red Cross High School Council. This group made up of teen-agers from all schools, works at the Chapter House on other projects. The group puts on the annual Junior Red Cross drive. The officers are: Toni Day, President; Carolyn Shearer, Vice President; Margaret Diamond, Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. Elanor Huddleston Sponsor.

BOOK WEEK

LIBRARY

Upon entering Lamar's library, one is aware of an atmosphere of intense concentration. At one table a group of students may sit listening intently to records. The serenity of the library is not disturbed, however, since the phonograph may be heard only through the earphones. This is typical of the many excellent devices found here. The library is usually the first place to which visitors are taken on a tour of the school, for both faculty and students are proud of this library which contains approximately eleven thousand volumes of fiction and non-fiction. Then too, there are numerous sources of additional information. The library subscribes to an excellent variety of periodicals, which range from news reports, to travel, sports, and hobby publications. There is also a well-kept bound collection of back issues of publications so that almost any reference which a student may find in the Readers' Guide may be easily obtained. Several sets of up to date reference books are to be found here also. In addition, a well kept vertical file offers an extensive collection of government bulletins, pamphlets, and important clippings—another example of the library's excellently organized content.

While Beverly Chastain keeps busy typing cards for the catalogue, Jull Beshell charges out a magazine which contains much needed references.

With the assistance of Gloria Hoffman and David Berkshire, Jerilyn Rice arranges the bulletin board—typical of the many library sponsored exhibits.

Librarian

LIBRARY

The library is extremely fortunate in having several remarkable collections of fine and rare books. Most notable among these is The Fenwick White collection. This consists of rare books, many limited editions, and valuable volumes. This collection is the gift of Mrs. John Dickson, the aunt of Fenwick White, who was the president of Lamar's first graduating class. Without the two capable librarians, Mrs. Edith Y. Cox, and Mrs. Josephine Gallagher, who is new to Lamar this year, the library would not run so smoothly. They are helped in their large job by a competent staff of student assistants who help with cataloging, filing, and of course, checking library permits. The library is supported, to an extent, by the students, for during Book Week the contributions are always proof of Lamarites' awareness of the importance of helping build the library. Throughout the year the exhibit cases in this interesting place are filled with varied displays. All of these points of excellence and value combine to make Lamar's library a constant source of pleasure and information in quiet helpful atmosphere.

Frances Alexander checks on orders for books, and Ann Farmer letters call numbers on new books, while Doris Winans completes the scrapbook on the Odessa game.

Carmelita Jones checks out a book to a student. The circulation desk, the center of activity in the library, is often in the charge of a student assistant.

Frances Alexander, Vice President; Beverly Chastain, Treasurer; Ann Farmer, Secretary; and Doris Winans, President, lead Wowapi this year.

WOWAPI

Wowapi, Lamar's library club is an organization of the student library assistants. However, no assistant is required to belong. The club assists the librarians in creating a usable, attractive and pleasant library, and the group works to promote fellowship among the members of the staff and to acquaint the members of the student assistant staff with each other. The members help with the Book Week program and details, and it is this group which is responsible for the attractive displays in the Library's case in the hall. Also, the club locates and arranges for the different exhibits in the library. The P.-T.A. Open House and the Christmas Holidays are other occasions for which Wowapis decorate and plan. This year they combined the decoration of the Christmas tree with a most enjoyable Christmas party. Throughout the year it is the members of this club who are responsible for the flowers in the library. Officers are: Doris Winans, President; Frances Alexander, Vice President; Ann Farmer, Secretary; Beverly Chastain, Treasurer. Mrs. Edith Cox and Mrs. Josephine Gallagher are sponsors.

SEQUOYAH

Sequoyah, Lamar's club for creative writers, is responsible for more than a few of those gleaming trophies in the front hall. The athletic department has close competition in this field of bringing home those golden beauties. The club presents the library, each year, with an anthology of the club's best work—poems, stories, and essays, many of which have received recognition in local, state, or national contests. These collections are representative of the high standards of Lamar, and the members' work, along with the art department, in turning out these beautifully illustrated and lettered volumes. Also, the club members enter as many writing contests as possible. Typical of these are the State Poetry Contest, the Atlantic's contest, and the Houston Council of English Teachers' competition. In April, the group will compete for the Interscholastic League's Ready Writers Contest. Officers are: Paula Ragusa, President; Jimmie Preston, Vice President; Lucia Romberg, Secretary; Bill Baker, Treasurer. Sponsors: Miss Helen Greenwood and Miss Margaret Buchannan.

Good writers are necessarily careful spellers. Joan Earl, Pete Gunter, Anita Dryselius, Judy Bower make a final check on one of those "two-dollar" words.

TEXAS JUNIOR HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Lamar Chapter of the Texas Junior Historian was established to promote an interest in Texas and Texas History. The group has sponsored several field trips to points in and around Houston. In addition to an interesting tour through the Public Library's Texas History Rooms, the group enjoyed field trips to San Felipe, La Grange, Columbus, and Washington-on-the-Brazos. Also, the members take turns in presenting programs concerning Texas folklore. The club encourages reading and discussion of current literature about Texas, and promotes individual research into Texas history. The results of this research are often presented in the form of a paper which is entered into competition sponsored by the Texas State Historical Association. Members represent Lamar at a meeting, held each April in Austin, of the Junior Historians. Sponsored by the University of Texas and the Texas State Historical Association, this convention is the high point of the year. These meetings feature speakers and reports on research done by Junior Historians and a tour of Austin. Officers are: Julie Montgomery, President; Nancy Chernosky, Vice President; Rebel Bishop, Recording Secretary; Retta Moody, Corresponding Secretary; Mary Breedlove, Treasurer; Miss Frances Nesmith, Sponsor.

TEXAS JUNIOR ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

The Lamar Chapter of the Junior Academy of Science, which is a member of the Texas Junior Academy of Science, strives to live up to its motto, "Science for service, safety, and pleasure". This theme is carried out in all of the club's activities which cover a widely diversified field of interest. This fall, under Miss Frances Hollingsworth, a chemistry group was formed within this club for those who wished to go into the material covered in class time more extensively. This organization goes, each December, to a convention in Austin. Here the members of all of the chapters in the state submit papers on their individual research for the criticism of science teachers from several state universities. However, membership is open to any who are interested in science whether as a hobby or as a serious career interest. The group enjoys several outings as well. Among these are a visit to a bird sanctuary and a trip through Baylor Medical School. Then, too, the chemistry group plans several tours through chemical plants and laboratories. Willard McCracken is the President of the entire chapter, while Keith Miller heads the chemistry group. The club is under the joint sponsorship of Mrs. Edna W. Miner and Miss Frances Hollingsworth.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

Although a relatively new organization here at Lamar, the W. J. Moyes Chapter of the Future Teachers of America, which was founded in the fall term of 1952, is already very active. This organization, the purpose of which is to interest young people in the field of education, is constantly working toward success in this aim. The members serve the school and the community by many small but necessary service projects. Typical of these projects is grading papers for teachers, which is also excellent training for the girls. In addition, the girls tutor those children at Faith Home who need help. The group, which is organized on a national basis as well, is headed, here at Lamar, by Sadie Fuller, President; Gail Woltman, Vice President; Sherry Crenshaw, Secretary; and Sue Thruston, Treasurer. Mrs. Mac Gates is sponsor.

FUTURE NURSES OF AMERICA

The Lamar Chapter of the Future Nurses of America was organized this year, but the club is already a very active one. This group, which is organized on the national scale, also, works with the chapters in the other public high schools in fulfilling the purpose of the club. The aims of the organization are, first, to interest high school students in personal and community health; second, to encourage students to consider the requirements and opportunities offered in a nursing career; and third, to help students decide wisely whether they wish advanced or practical nursing courses. The group has taken several trips to hospitals, and has enjoyed speakers and movies on nursing. Officers: Bebe Moody, President; Mary Beth Smith, Vice President; Mary Mason, Secretary-Treasurer; Miss Flora Burghdorf, sponsor.

C. S. U.

The Christian Student Union, better known as C.S.U., is Lamar's largest organization. In four years, the club has grown into a membership of well over two hundred students, and it is because of the remarkable student support that C.S.U. is successful in its attempt to bring about a close Christian fellowship within the whole student body. It does this in several ways, the first being its thought provoking speakers at the weekly meetings. Both clergymen and laymen are on the programs, but each one has an inspirational message for the group. Then, too, C.S.U. is affiliated with Prayer Time which is held each morning before school. This short devotional program is attended by many students who have found this to be a wonderful way to start a school day. At Thanksgiving,

CARTOONISTS' ASSOCIATION

Those crowds around the trophy cases in the front hall are not always gloating over our trophies, for the work of the Cartoonists' Association, which is displayed there, attracts much attention. Why not? For these young artists caricature and satirize those activities and groups which are all part of everyday school routine with such a gentle touch of humor that one enjoys laughing at himself. Indeed this organization is unique in the entire city. Since its organization in 1952 the group has worked to stimulate the interest of those students who are talented in the field of cartooning. A new topic is assigned each week, and the best of the cartoons are put on display. Members of the association have entered their work in Foleys' Art Show, and, in typical Lamar style, many came home winners. Some of the members intend to make a career of their cartooning, while others are interested in it only as a hobby. Officers: Jean Arnold, President; Jack Casimir, Vice President; Diane Davis, Secretary; Paula Ragusa, Treasurer. Miss Norma Henderson is the capable sponsor.

WAPIKA

A large part of the colorful backdrop of Lamar's production is the work of Wapika, the art club. Its members' work brightens the front hall with gay and interesting exhibits. In addition, members invite prominent Houston artists to their meetings, and their programs are fascinating demonstrations of new techniques and media. This year, as in past years, Wapikas will enter the Regional Scholastic Art Contest under Foleys' sponsorship. The gold key winners will be entered into National competition. Although winners are not announced until late in the spring, Lamar is sure to bring home honors as it has done so often in the past. The members use their talent to give others pleasure too, since Wapika's biggest project is decorating Hedgecroft Clinic at Christmas. The officers are Susan Rice, President; Frances McPherson, Secretary; Diane Davis, Vice President and Treasurer. Miss Norma Henderson is Wapika's capable sponsor.

SPEAKERS' FORUM

Lamar's speech department is another part of the production which can always be counted on for a sparkling performance. The group started off in fine style. At the first tournament of the year, given by T.S.C.W. and North Texas State of Denton, Lamar brought home five trophies. Ewing Werlein and Steven Oaks tied Jimmy Brannon and Harvin Moore for first and second place in Boy's Debate, while Anne Lewis and Alice Cowan tied Patsy Heard and Pat Stallings for the same honors in Girls' Debate. Lamar placed first in Extemporaneous Speaking with Harrison Wagner and Margie Wise, while Alice Cowan and Anne Lewis placed second and third respectively in Radio. Other "firsts" were awarded to Jim Bernhard in Radio Speaking and in Humorous Readings, to Joan Feild and Ewing Werlein in Poetry Interpretations, to Anne Lewis and Steven Oaks in Book Reviewing, to Margie Wise in Impromptu Speaking, and to Anne Lewis in Bible Reading. In the competition in each of these classes, Lamar placed either second, or third, or both, as well. Needless to say, after this brilliant showing Lamar won the sweepstakes trophy too. The Student Congress at the University of Houston was the next challenge, and under Mr. Ray Corder, the new speech coach, replacing Mr. Floyd Dougherty who retired in the fall, Lamar came home victorious again. In addition to the sweepstakes trophy, Lamar won three trophys for valuable participants. These went to Harrison Wagner, most valuable member in the upper house, Ewing Werlein, most valuable member in the lower house, and to Jimmy Brannon, second most valuable member in the Senate. This was followed by the Lamar Tournament. Now Lamar played host, and the tournament was a great success. Lamar's quest for trophies then led to Helen Raaz diligently types the reams of ballots, judge sheets, and results so necessary in running a speech tournament as Fred Hofheinz helps or hinders with suggestions and Bobby Johnson hands in more lists.

More speech tournament management—Nat Turner and Janet Hubly pause in their labors of making topics for extemporaneous speakers to check with Richard Royds who seems to be having difficulty matching countless debate teams.

the Hillcrest High School Tournament in Dallas. Lamar claimed three more trophies here, including the sweepstakes award, the winning of which was becoming habitual for the group. Harrison Wagner and Jim Bernhard won first place in Boys' Debate; Patricia Stallings and Patsy Heard won top honors in Girls' Debate. Since Lamar teams were not allowed to compete against one another, Anne Lewis and Alice Cowan won third place in Girls' Debate. Harrison Wagner won first places in Original Oratory and Extemporaneous Speaking, while Patsy Heard won first in Oratory and second in Extemporaneous Speaking. First, second and third places in Poetry went to Anne Lewis, Joan Feild, and Jim Bernhard, respectively. In addition, Jimmy Brannon won second place in Declamation while he and Margie Wise each were awarded second place ratings in Afterdinner Speaking. The fourth contest was held in Alice at William Adams High School. Again, due to the fact that Lamar did not debate against Lamar, we won first and third places in both Girls' and Boys' Debate. First place honors went to Ewing Werlein and Steven Oaks, and to Pat Stallings and Patsy Heard. Anne Lewis and Alice Cowan tied for the highest number of points, and again, Lamar's speakers brought home the sweepstakes award. Crowning this successful year was the winning of both Boys' and Girls' Debate and the sweepstakes award at the Baylor Tournament. Pat Stallings and Patsy Heard, Jimmy Brannon and Neal Satterwhite won scholarships to Baylor by taking the coveted debate "firsts" in competition with 185 other teams.

"Practice makes perfect," and Bill Mount seems to be practicing up on debating as George Boyd hurriedly consults a civics book for refutation and Keith Miller pauses long enough in his note-taking to find it all rather amusing.

"Hurry up! It's time to leave!" Bobby Ley, Frank Kelly, Alice Cowan, and Sid Holderness wait for other members of the debate team before loading the car with their brief cases, typewriters, and coats for the Baylor speech trip.

RADIO GUILD

"Good morning! May I have your attention for the morning devotional and announcements?" These words herald the beginning of each school day, and these few quiet serious moments which are brought to us by the members of the Lamar Radio Guild have become an integral part of the daily routine at Lamar. Then, too, the few important announcements at 2:55 p.m. are also due to the work of this group. On February 13, the organization presented a radio program on KTHT called "My Double and How He Undid Me." The production was under the direction of Jim Bernhard, and members of the guild took the starring roles. Among these were: Joan Feild, Bob Russell, Harrison Wagner, Carol Ann Trimble, Ewing Werlein, Bill Landfield, Brady Cole, Marilyn Reed, Sylvia Davis, Tom Terry, and Bob Jungman. The entire program was under the direction of Mr. Ray C. Corder, a Lamar speech teacher. In addition, the members attend talks on radio techniques by Professor Richard Uray of the University of Houston as well as having made visits to KUHT and KUHF studios at the University of Houston. The objectives of the guild are to give students who are interested in the radio and television industry a chance to learn about it, and to participate in actual production and broadcast work and to develop their ability and to assist the school in dealing with radio and public address work. Officers are: Jim Bernhard, President; Brady Cole, Vice President; Sally Shaffer, Secretary; Ewing Werlein, Treasurer; Adele Oberg, Program Chairman; and Ben Bob Keller, Technical Consultant. Mrs. Ruth R. Denney is the capable sponsor of the Lamar Radio Guild.

NATIONAL THESPIAN

This organization is composed of all of Lamar's outstanding drama students. The society was organized in 1929 on a national basis, while Lamar's chapter was founded in 1946. Since this time the group has done exceptional work in the dramatic field. The membership requirement is ten honor points which have been earned by working back stage, by participating actively in a school production, by attending a play presented outside of school in order to study dramatic techniques and skills, or by taking part in any general work connected with drama. If a member earns more than the required number of points, he then becomes a "Star Thespian," and a star is added to his membership certificate. When a member acquires a total of thirty points, he is presented with a gold bar for outstanding accomplishment. This year the group has presented the three act comedy-musical, "Best Foot Forward," with Mrs. Ruth Denney and Mr. Lee S. Keding as directors. Also, the successful production of the three act play, "Stage Door," was part of Thespian activities. In addition, National Thespians will present a one act play for the interscholastic contests in the spring. However, the high point of the year for the "Star Thespians" will be the National Thespian Convention which will be held at Indiana University. The group is headed this year by Tina Mistrot, the President. She is assisted by George Hagle, Vice-President; Annita Fite, Secretary; and Ben Bob Keller, Treasurer. Mrs. Ruth Denney is the beloved and able sponsor of this, the "National Honor Society" for all high school students interested in any or all phases of drama.

KACHINA

Kachina is Lamar's dramatic group's organization, and anyone who has an interest in any phase of drama or production is entitled to membership. The organization serves as a proving ground or a stepping stone for the students who are working toward membership in the National Thespian Society, for it is the members of Kachina whose work is rewarded by those eagerly-sought Thespian points. The workers may participate in any one of the number of phases of activity which are involved in a production. The young "hopefuls" in the field of costume design are given the chance to begin to learn the job, for careful and exact costuming is essential. Others work on the lighting problems of the presentation, thereby gaining priceless experience. The "would-be" make-up artists get their chance to learn and to gain skill through experience, while the budding art students enjoy an opportunity to design and bring into reality the necessary sets. The departments concerned with props and the all-important door-bells, telephones, and general sound effects, are also managed by students who are learning this accuracy which is so necessary. The business part of the jobs is handled by the ticket and program groups, each one essential in itself. In addition, the faculty sponsors work with student directors on the supervisory phase. Needless to say, the task of acting is taken on by those students who are "Broadway bound."

KACHINA

Thus all of the sides of the production are covered by students, each one doing what he most enjoys—always quite capably. The Kachinas are responsible for Lamar's "famous, fabulous" Variety Shows. The first one this year, Teepee T.V. was the usual success. Built around various television shows and stars, the production was thoroughly enjoyed as well as being competently staged and directed. Also, Kachinas put on a variety show for the patients in the Veterans' Hospital. This is typical of the group's varied program of activities. The group works on the presentation of the year's big spring musical-talent show, this year's being "Varsity Revue." It is large scale productions like this, and the several three-act presentations which give the members of Kachina the opportunity to display talent and abilities to the fullest. The group works on the one-act play which is entered in the spring Interscholastic League competition. This, too, is a challenge which is always accepted by this group. The members enjoy visits to the local theaters, particularly for dress rehearsals, for it is here that an exceptional opportunity to watch professional theater workers and actors is provided. Officers chosen for this year are: Margaret Diamond, President; Barbara Farren, Vice President; and Pat Douglas, the Secretary-Treasurer. Kachina's sponsor is Mrs. Ruth Denney, head of Lamar's drama department.

Y-TEENS

The Y-Teens at Lamar are part of an organization which is world wide as well as being constructed on a local, state, and national basis. The inter-club representatives in the city work together constantly for the good of this Young Women's Christian Association sponsored group. The members work to build a fellowship devoted to realizing ideals of personal and social living, to growing as individuals in friendship with people of other nations, races, and religions, and in the knowledge and love of God. At Eastertime, the Y-Teens from all over the city unite to present the unforgetably inspiring sunrise program in Hermann Park, and each phase of the production, from publicity to presentation, is handled cooperatively by the members. presenting the library with a Christmas tree, decorated with ornaments made by the girls, a Christmas gift to the whole school. Then the tree is taken to some needy family when school is dismissed for the holidays. Another activity centers around the Y-Teens Style Show. The members act as models, and in addition to furnishing an enjoyable afternoon, the members raise funds for their principal charity project in this manner. Throughout the year, the Y-Teen meetings themselves are of real interest to girls. A talk on grooming by a professional model is typical of the program highlights. The Y-Teens cookie and fudge sales are always popular. HI-Y

The Hi-Y fellowship, under the YMCA's sponsorship, works to create, to maintain, and to extend, throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character. Lamar's group has numerous service projects including working in the Easter sunrise pageant at Hermann Park. The boys also sell cakes and Christmas cards at the YMCA district rallys to earn money for the World Service fund. This year, the Lamar fellowship earned and donated $65.00. This fall, three seniors, two juniors, and five sophomores went to the Youth and Government program in Austin. In a student congress, they met as Senate and House of Representatives, and passed laws. This trip, the highlight of the Hi-Y year, is an annual occasion. The group has divided into three chapters, one exclusively for sophomores. The officers of the Gahege Chapter are: Walter Moore, President;

The sophomore chapter is led by Frank Kelly, President; Bob Gregg, Vice President; Dick Hattwick, Secretary; Robert Estill, Treasurer. The chapters meet separately for business discussions, and then the entire fellowship meets together for a program which may be a movie or a speaker from some civic group or from the YMCA central office. Also, speakers from the Traffic Safety department and the Marriage Relations Bureau have been popular. The combined chapters are governed by Allan Zama, President; Jimmy Strawn, Vice President; Tommy Joiner, Secretary; Billy Wells, Treasurer; Mr. B. Kent, sponsor.

LA CINQUANTAINE

"Parlez vous francais?" Whether the answer is "Mais non," (No); "Un peu" (a little) or "Oui, certainment" (Yes, certainly), the French Club, La Cinquantaine, welcomes students who have an interest in the French language or France. The group promotes this interest through speakers, films, and correspondence with French pen-pals. The group's charity project is sending food and clothing to French families, particularly those in Normandy, the northern part of France's farming region. This project is financed by popular cookie and candy sales. The group stresses study of French customs and celebrations; and emphasizes the importance of the French language's influence on our language. Officers are: Cathy Hammerich, President; Joan Earl, Vice President; Doris Johnson, Secretary; Kathie Wunsch, Treasurer; Frank Crenshaw, Program Chairman; Mrs. Helen Earl, sponsor.

R. O. T. C. OFFICERS CLUB

This organization is composed of the cadet officers in the Lamar R.O.T.C. Corps and the R.O.T.C. Band. These leaders strive to fulfill the aims of the club which are: first, to promote an interest in all types of military affairs; second, to criticize, in a constructive manner, the whole corps, its functions, and its plans; and third, to supervise and organize all of the corps' social activities. In January, each year, the Officers' Club unites with the similar organizations in the other public schools in giving the R.O.T.C. Officers' Ball. Every officer of the R.O.T.C. units throughout the entire city is invited. Officers of the club are: Major Jimmy Alfred, President; Captain Billy Marshall, Vice President; Second Lieutenant Kay Johnson, Secretary. The group is sponsored by the Commandant, Lieutenant Weston H. Fairchild, and the regular army instructor, Sergeant First Class Curtis L. Lockhart.

R. O. T. C.

The R.O.T.C. unit at Lamar is headed by Second Lieutenant Weston H. Fairchild, the able Commandant, and Sergeant First Class Curtis L. Lockhart, the regular army instructor, who is a seasoned combat veteran. Together with the student officers, they plan and administer the government's R.O.T.C. program. The purpose of the corps is to train men for officers' jobs in later years. The group strives to build leaders, and to teach good citizenship in peace and war. In the R.O.T.C. classes, a knowledge of all of the various and specialized fields of military science may be gained, and this instruction is supplemented by practical drills which include the care and expert use of the rifle. The corps is divided into three companies, and each one drills in the afternoon, constantly working toward more perfect accuracy in parade ground maneuvers. In addition, the corps as a whole has additional weapons presented and explained in demonstrations. Lamar's corps is very active. It marches in the Armistice Day Parade each fall, and participates in several after-school reviews. The group joins with all the units in the city for some activities. One of these is the final inspection which is held each spring at the football stadium. Also, the units combine in giving the city-wide Officers' Ball each January—the high point in the corps' social year.

TRAINING CORPS AND BAND

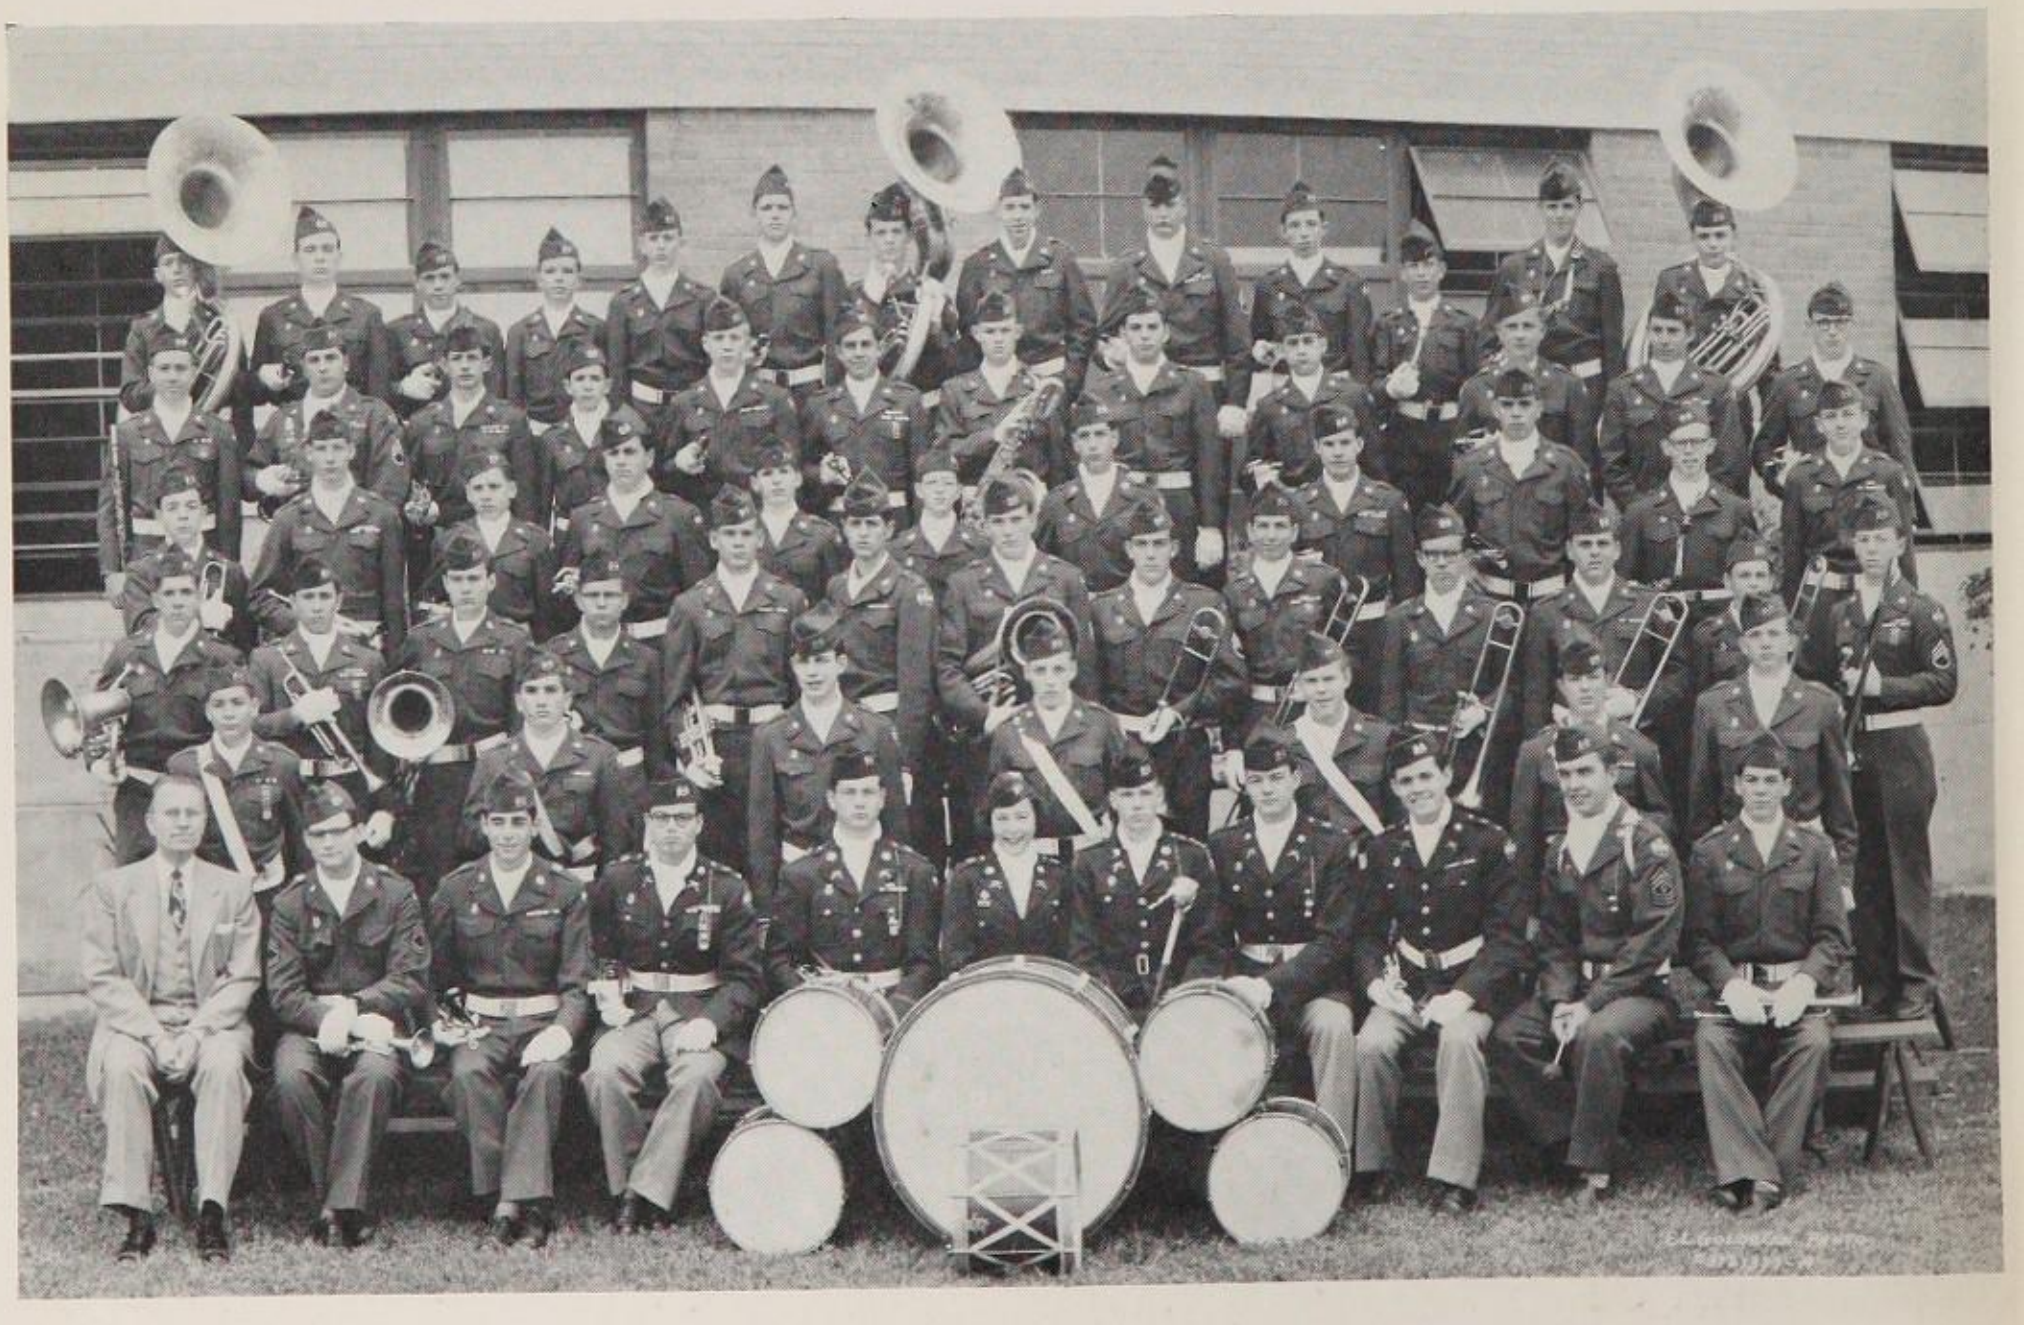
R. O. T. C. BAND

Lamar's R.O.T.C. Band is as great a part of the cheering section as are the cheerleaders, themselves. The Band's united support of the team is indispensable. Without the Band, bonfires and pep rallies could never exist, for it is its superb music and spirit that make these events the thrilling moments that they are. In addition, the Band acts as regimental band for the whole city at the Spring Final Inspection, and this ceremony, held at the football stadium, is a memorable one. The Band is a strongly united group, and the members enjoy many social activities together. Typical of these are the open houses after football games, and the band formal and the spring banquet. The officers are: Capt. Tom McPhaul, fall commander; Capt. Robert Davis, fall executive officer and spring commander; Lt. Mack Hines; Lt. Charles Hart; Lt. Ernest Lord; Lt. Wayne Forrest; Sweetheart Ann Phillips. The band is directed by Lee S. Keding.



Major Ray Camper, standing at the left, points out the general characteristics of a rocket launcher or Bazooka, while the weapon's use and practical points of construction are demonstrated by Captain Jim Alfred, kneeling.

DRILL PLATOON

All Lamarites, sophomores to seniors, have excellent reason to be proud of the school's ROTC Drill Platoon. This group, which is under the command of Lt. Ted Shields, is made up of cadets from the entire ROTC who are outstanding in the corps, have put conscientious effort into participation in ROTC activities, and have shown an unusual interest in the drill platoon. The group drills after school to perfect its marching, and is commonly seen in formation on the campus. The members, pictured below, left to right, are: First row: Ted Shields, James Lawrence, Ringling George, James Dinwoody, Bob Chapin, Brantley McAdoo, Henry Barrere, Gene May, Bill Cornelius, David Bratton, Pat McMurrough, Joe Rogers, S. Choralettes officers for this year are: Anne Lewis, Fall President; Mr. Lee S. Keding, Sponsor; Patti Keith McCall, Fall Treasurer.

CHORALETTES

Although it is Lamar's newest chorus, Choralettes' fame has already spread throughout the whole city. Since its organization in 1950, the club has worked to live up to its motto, "In harmony there is unity." The group strives to fulfill its purpose which is to present music as an entertaining art. Choralettes' Christmas and Spring shows are among the year's highlights. Their music is a very important part of the National Honor Society's Installation, held each spring. The group, Lamar's largest chorus, has also been invited repeatedly to sing at Rotary Club luncheons

KIOWA

Since its origination in 1950, Kiowa, Lamar's mixed chorus, has grown to be one of the most popular and well known of the choral groups. It works in connection with Haienonis for many programs and social activities, and this combination is always a winner. This year, the members of Kiowa presented Johnny Appleseed. an operetta, and with the help of Haienonis, made it a great success. Then, the mixed chorus' members and sponsor worked with Mr. Keding and Mrs. Denney on the three act comedy, "Best Foot Forward"—another instance of Kiowa's versatility. The group unites with Haienonis in the Christmas and Easter programs, and these two groups sing carols in the halls at Christmas. In addition, the winter formal is held in conjunction with Haienonis, and this occasion is always a sure success. Officers are: Charlyn Jancik, President; Jerry Waugh, Vice President; Tommy Overstreet, Secretary; Tommy Pope, Treasurer. Mr. Bliss C. Mapes is Kiowa's sponsor.

HAIENONIS

Haienonis, Lamar's oldest choral group, is one of the two fine girls' choruses found on the reservation. Its membership has increased greatly in the last few years, and for this reason the group has been divided into a Senior period and a Sophomore-Junior period. Each section elects its own officers, and functions completely independently. However, the two unite for all programs, pay dances, and social activities. The members of Haienonis present several excellent programs, and the traditional concerts given at Christmas and Easter are favorites with the student body. This year Haienonis joined Kiowa in presenting the operetta "Johnny Appleseed." The members also sponsor a pay dance in the spring and numerous cookie sales. These proceeds go to buy music department equipment. Each winter the club holds its formal dance. The officers are: Jana McFarland, President; Patti Pope, Vice-President; Pat Stallings, Secretary; Carole Smith, Treasurer; Mr. Bliss C. Mapes, sponsor.

AWAHOO

The newest boys' social club, Awahoo, was originated this past fall as a friendship-backed organization in which the members would try to promote good will throughout the school, and would help to make visitors and new pupils feel welcome. In this aim Awahoo's members have succeeded greatly, for a reputation as the group with a friendly grin and a cheerful "Hi!" has already been established. The Awahoos have been active participants in school wide drives from the start. Such drives as the United Fund and Book Week Fund received Awahoo's donations.

Then, too, when the social clubs redecorated Mr. Madden's office during his leave of absence, Awahoo was in on this. The members participated in club basketball and football games. The group is looking forward to social activities this spring. Among these are a hayride and a formal dinner dance. The officers are: Jimmy Ebanks, President; Phil Davis, Vice President; Jack Cook, Secretary; Fred Poole, Treasurer; Dave Davis, Social Chairman; Gery Jordan, Historian; Mr. Calvin Gentry, the club's sponsor.

CHUMS

Chums are always busy doing something for the school or for the less fortunate. The letters of their name stand for Charity, Hospitality, Usefulness, Merit, and Scholarship, and the members live up to these, the aims of the club. Chums have given the school such fine gifts as the beautiful rose beds around the flagpole, and some of the handsome trophy cases in the front hall, as well as many of the Heritage Club books found in the library. Then, too, they sponsor such worthy projects as Christmas visits to Jefferson Davis Hospital and the Shrine Crippled Children's Hospital. One of the high points of the year is the widely renowned Chums' Carnival. For one night, the halls are transformed into an excitingly authentic looking carnival midway, with everything from sideshows to cotton candy. Much of the Christmas spirit at Lamar is promoted by Chums through their sale of boxes of assorted Christmas cards. The Chums Style Show is anticipated eagerly by all female Lamarites. Sponsored by Battelstein's, the show is always a success, since the Chums themselves are the models. In addition, this group sponsors one night of a production at the Playhouse Theater. This, too, is always a hit and a sellout is assured. The officers are Sherry O'Bryant, President; Joan Feild, Vice President; Martha Cooper, Recording Secretary; Patsy Irick, Corresponding Secretary; Jani Staats, Treasurer; and Mrs. Gladys Pushard, Sponsor.

IRARI

Whether in the lunchroom or at their pay dances, the members of Irari bring fun with them. The motto of Lamar's oldest boys' club is "Imi Irari"—brothers always, and this brotherhood is always strong. The "old Irari spirit" is carried on in publicity stunts and lunchroom frolics. Each year the members choose the Irari court, made up of one representative from each girls' social club, as well as one who is chosen at large. The court is reigned over by the Queen. This year this title was bestowed upon Barbara Nash. The princesses and the queen are honored by an open house. Irari's Johnny Reb Recall pay dance held each fall is based on a War Between the States theme. The dance is preceded by a mock battle on the front lawn where, oddly enough, the Rebels are always victorious. During this week Lamarites are warned that the South will rise again. The Iraris' social program includes a stag banquet and a traditional spring formal. The officers are: Roy Bennett, President; LeRoy Wheeler, Vice President; Roger Wright, Secretary; David Hussman, Treasurer; and Mr. J. B. Millsap is the sponsor.

MIRABEAU

The new girls' social club, Mirabeau, was formed this year by a few girls under the guidance of the sponsor, Mrs. Mary K. Staats, and, of course, with Mr. Wright's approval. With the new club, new ideas spring up along with a deep determination on the part of the members of the infant club to grow! Typical of Mirabeau's new ideas is its club directory, the first at Lamar. It contains the dates of all the club's social functions as well as a copy of the constitution and the names, addresses, and telephone numbers of all the members. The Mirabeaus strive to reach their goal of stressing good citizenship, promoting friendliness, improving school spirit, and doing charity work. Then too, at Christmas, Mirabeau members worked and collected gifts and clothing for a family. NIWAUNA

"Step right up! Come to the Nifty Fifties—The greatest old time vaudeville show you've ever seen!" This cry may be heard in the spring, and it is a sure sign that the Niwaunas are on the go. In addition to an afternoon of fun, Niwauna also furnishes those famous singing valentines. All day, February 14, classes are interrupted by red and white clad Niwaunas who warble messages of love to red faced Lamarites. This fall, Niwauna presented "The Cleopatra Clop," a pay dance with an Egyptian theme, and a most unique floor show. However, Niwauna also has charitable projects. The most important of these is a party given each year for the kindergarten children at Hawthorne School. Since many of these children come from broken and poverty ridden homes, this party is often the only happy moment of the Christmas season for them. Another service project is selling football schedule blotters which have proved very popular with the students. One dime buys information and service . . . truly a bargain. On the whole Niwauna can always be counted on to support the school and the student body completely, as well as to live up to its motto "We are alive; let's stay that way." The officers for this year are, Barbara Nash, President; Louise Mugford, Vice President; Linda Foster, Recording Secretary; Edith Elliott, Corresponding Secretary; Margaret Diamond, Treasurer; and Mrs. Maude Powell is the capable Sponsor, who is behind the varied activities and projects of the organization.

PALAMAR

With such sprightly slogans as "Panic the Ponies," and "Rattle Reagan," on slogan slips, Lamar's team could not fail to win the state championship. Each member of Palamar, with her envelope of slogan slips and dimes is a "Twelfth Man" on the team, and each student who wears one helps to spread school spirit. Palamar does many things for the school, and has, as well, an enjoyable program of social activities. This fall, Palamars have devoted many afternoons to the exacting task of polishing the trophies. PALAMAR projects as an Easter egg hunt for the little colored orphans keep the Palamars busy. Then, too, there is Palamar's annual pay dance, "The Darktown Strutters' Ball." The floorshow features the famous Palamar Can-Can. Palamar's social calendar includes a formal dinner dance at the Houston Country Club, and a party, in May, when officers for the following year are announced. The officers for this year are Anne Lawhon, President; Betty Jo Schroeter, Vice-President; Mary Ruth Sandel, Recording Secretary; Bebe Moody, Corresponding Secretary; Carol Whitehurst, Treasurer. Miss Virginia Taylor is the Sponsor.

Mary Ruth Sandel, Recording Secretary; Carol Whitehurst, Treasurer; and Bebe Moody, Corresponding Secretary; work very efficiently.

POW WOW

"Hurry to the Homecoming Hop." This cry is heard in Lamar's halls each fall, and it heralds one of the most popular of the annual pay dances. Pow Wow gives Lamarites a taste of the excitement of a college homecoming celebration. For a week, the lunchroom is decorated with stunning posters which give advance notice, and the crowning of a homecoming queen adds extra color and thrill. Then too, Pow Wow's traditional Royalty Romp is always anticipated by the student body. This pay dance is held after the May Fete and everyone is King or Queen for the evening. Pow Wow strives to provide wholesome entertainment, to aid in all school activities, and to teach the fundamentals of organization and leadership. It succeeds in fulfilling its aims. Also Pow Wow contributes to the United Fund, and to the library's annual drive. Each year Pow Wow selects a sweetheart. This year she is Louise Mugford. Pow Wow's social calendar includes a formal dance in the spring. The officers are: Taylor Smith, President; Allan Lingo, Vice President; Hershal Ferguson, Secretary; Brady Cole, Treasurer; Bobby Glash, Sergeant-at-Arms; and Mr. Arthur Herring is Pow Wow's sponsor.

Allan Lingo, Vice-President this year; Brady Cole, Treasurer; Hershal Ferguson, Secretary; handle many of Pow Wow's business matters.

RAMAL

The members of Ramal work continually to promote school spirit and fellowship, and because these qualities are found so strongly within the club, this organization is successful. The cup which Ramal awards each spring to the most outstanding junior girl, is one of the highest honors one can receive at Lamar. Then, too, the presentations of the Ramal cups to the most outstanding senior and to the most outstanding senior athlete, are also anticipated for many months. The club's most widely spread fame is the result of the Ramal Relays, held each spring. The races are open to all students, and much merriment is in store for both entrants and spectators. These relays are planned to help discover new talent for Lamar's track team, and to foster good sportsmanship and a friendly competitive spirit. One of the high points of the social year for Ramal's members is the Christmas formal dance. This year's officers are: Ronnie Waldie, President; Lynn Carter, Vice-President; Jim Winn, Secretary; Ralph Davidson, Treasurer; and Mr. Lee S. Keding, Sponsor. The members have chosen Edith Elliott as their Sweetheart for 1953-1954.

TAWASI

T.F.F.? . . . Next Tuesday! Such signs in Lamar's halls mean but one thing . . . Tawasi's Faculty Follies. A novelty at Lamar, the Follies was a great success, and thereby insured its own continuance. The word Tawasi means friendship, and the members live up to this title. The group is well united in its striving towards sportsmanship, fellowship, and friendliness. Tawasi helps boost school spirit by the sale of red and blue pompoms which loyal Lamarites wave at the games. But perhaps the club is best known for its spring pay dance, "The Show Boat Shuffle." Hoop skirts, Southern gentlemen, magnolia blossoms and river-boat gamblers are the order of the evening, and one may be sure that when the showboat docks in the Lamar gym, fun is on board. At Christmas and Easter Tawasi's gifts of food and clothing help make a needy family's holiday a little more bright. Lamar has Tawasi to thank for the many serviceable and decorative concrete benches at vantage points on the campus. The awarding of the Tawasi Cup is one of the outstanding academic events of the year. By tradition, it is presented to the most outstanding boy of the Junior Class, whose identity is a carefully guarded and eagerly guessed-at secret. Last year's recipient of this award was Walter Fondren. This year the officers, working under the leadership of Mrs. Louise Robb, the Sponsor, are Frances McPherson, President; Pat Skaggs, Vice President; Adrienne Craddock, Recording Secretary; Fern Fagan, Corresponding Secretary; and Mary Jane Wilkinson, Treasurer.

Mary Jane Wilkinson, Treasurer; Adrienne Craddock, Recording Secretary; Fern Fagan, Corresponding Secretary, work together.

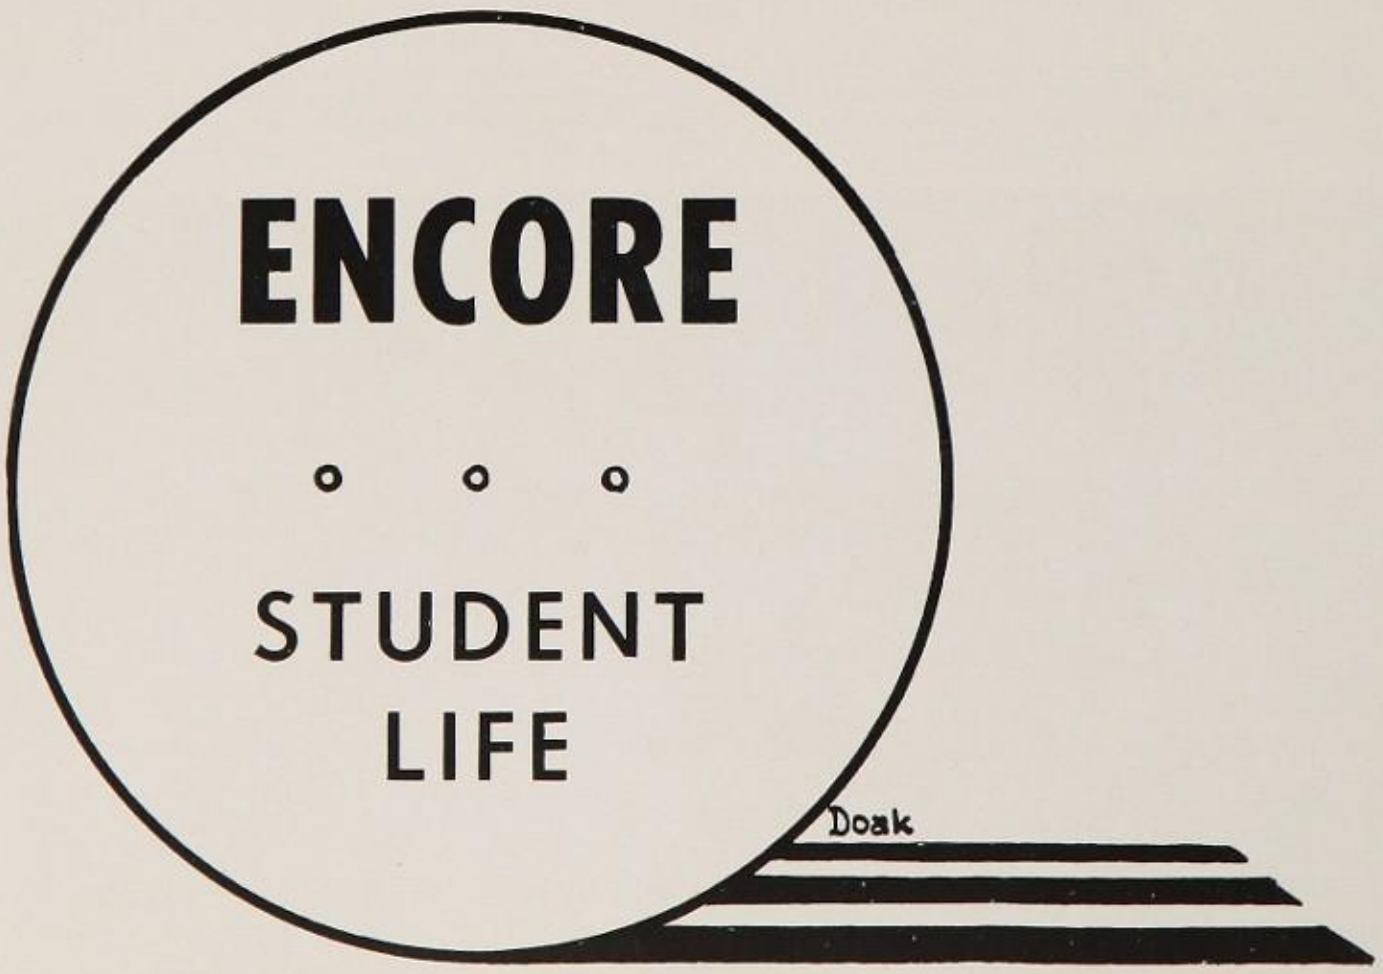
Those moments in the colorful pageant of high school which we want most to be able to recall in years to come . . . Each event holds a laugh or a sigh for all of us, and these memories will continue to be enjoyed forever.



AS LAST YEAR ENDED . . .

As last year ended, so did Mr. Moyes' reign as principal. This new Oldsmobile was only one of the many presents given to Mr. and Mrs. Moyes for the wonderful part they played in the cast of Lamar. The Senior Choralettes provided much good music for the Baccalaureate Service held at the First Methodist Church. A ship's deck was the scene for the big spring musical, "Continental Capers," which brought forth many humorous characters—"Gangster" Ed Hendricks, Newlyweds Rita Roberdeau and David Wright, Sign-holder Wick Foxworth, Teachers Minifred Boyles and Julie Johnson, Press reporter Howard Schaumberg, Olympic trainer Wayne McMinn, Athletes Jack Frost and Buddy Voekle. The one-act play which was entered in the interscholastic contest was "Submerged," the story of a submarine's crew trapped under the sea. It starred Edgar Ellis, Taylor Smith, Rebby Gregg, and Ed Hendricks.

AS THIS YEAR BEGAN . . .

Captain Bill Marshall, and R.O.T.C. Sponsor Claire Hudspeth welcome parents to the annual

AS FOOTBALL TOOK OVER . . .

"And he can cook, too!" Lamar has a very versatile assistant principal, Mr. Madden, who pitched in to make mayonnaise for those sandwiches for the trip to Temple. Lamarites wave "Farewell." At the top is Albert Roos. Below are Ann Phillips, Don Donahoe, and Ernest Lord. "Go—Lamar—Go!" Kathleen Kimbro and Dick McKeever, Lamar's alternate cheerleaders, work hard. "Lamar State Champs"—a bonfire cheered the team on to that victory over Odessa. An enthusiastic crowd proves that the largest school in Texas is full of the most spirit and pep. On the front row are Margie Wise, Allene King, and Mary Sue Goodere. A large crowd turned out to send the team off to another football victory in the semi-final game at Waco. During the months of December and January, social clubs had formal dances. Seen at the Palamar formal are Jimmy Johnston, Mary Ruth Sandel, and Taylor Smith. Seen at the Niwauna formal are Bitsy Elliott, Jack Brennan, Claire Hudspeth, and Harry Searle.

AS MID-TERM APPROACHED . . .

The National Thespians put on the play "Stage Door." From back stage Johnny Schwarz, stage hand (alias Denney's Demon), watches a scene played by Janet Rendleman, Steven Oaks, and Nancy Miller. "Another piece of cake, please!" Crowding around the refreshment table at the Irari open house are Louise Jackman, David Husmann, Beverly Cocheu, Wallace Tomlinson, Ann Phillips, Sam Barclay, Nancy Spencer, Annita Fite, Jay Feibleman, Roy Bennett, Barbara Nash, and Gail Woltman. Football dancers from "Best Foot Forward," a play put on by the Kachina Club, surround Mrs. Denney. From the bottom, clockwise—Elaine Harlan, Marilyn Garrett, Judy Davies, Patsy Carnes, Louise Mugford, Ann Gill, and Janet Rendleman. In Miss Covington's homeroom, Cathy Davis measures Mayfield Damon for a cap and gown to don on that big moment in June. The long train trip to Temple was shortened by the entertaining music of George Berry, Jim Black, Mike Kemp, and Pete Gunter. Mary Beth Smith, Ann Suggs, and Jan Hill were among many spectators who joined in the songs.

AS PARTIES ENTERED THE PICTURE . . .

Jim Bernhard directs a radio play featuring Bob Jungman, Joan Feild, and Harrison Wagner. The Lancer Staff has a party! Gathered around the table are Peggy O'Neill, Gail Woltman, Judy Bower, Robert Maniha, Kim Darling, Pat Stallings, Jay Berger, and Alfred Bishop. "Best Foot Forward" is a success and the members of the cast are enjoying a party after the play—Taylor Smith, Mary Ruth Sandel, Roy Bennett, Wayne Forrest, Anne Doak, Bill Mount, Annita Fite, Bob Russell, and Mrs. Denney. "The carnival is coming!"—Clowns at the "Chums' Carnival" are Carmen Caldwell, Carolyn Hendrie, Martha Embree, Gloria Hoffman, and Rose Corder. The ten Miss Lamar finalists—Fran Marye, Ann Phillips, Suzanna Burke, Dolores Scofield, Maggie Wunderlich, Sue Beard, Mary Guest, Gayle Long, Leonean Hunt, and Drusilla Carothers. The title was bestowed on Drusilla as a climax to the "Varsity Revue." And here's the great Lamar Band—caught 'midst one of their many afternoon practice drills!"

AS FUN ENDED THIS YEAR . . .

Without photographers, where would the ORENDA be? Pictured are Alfred Waddill, Nat

Turner, and Tommy McElhinney who have cooperated so well with the ORENDA staff. Note: The unique division pages were photographed by Nat. The newst fad at Lamar is "lollipops." From the top sitting on the steps eating the candy are Margie Wise and Pat Stallings, Sherry O'Bryant and Mollie Villeret, and Margaret Ann Martin and Mary Jane Wilkinson. Rogues' Gallery? No, must be the faculty basketball team who defeated the varsity team in a fierce game. Pictured are players, Longcope, Dee, Madden, Tate, Millsap, Johnson, "Mr. X" (Willard Tinsley), Gentry, Gochenour, Stewart, and Corder. Seated is McComb. While Mrs. Denney and her stage crew arrange scenery, Mr. Keding's orchestra runs through one more number for the big spring show. Skilled potters, such as Sondra Worthy, Harry Searle, and Louise Jackman exhibit their work in the crafts room. Potters' wheels and jars of glaze are spots of "local color."

As the Curtain Falls...

let's recall the events which were scheduled to occur after the printer had taken away the dummy to make final arrangements for the opening night performance of "1953-54 at Lamar".

On stage at the reservation, two performances made news in drama circles. The annual spring show, this year titled "Varsity Revue", took the audience to college campuses over the nation. Drusilla Carothers was chosen "Miss Lamar" from a field of many beautiful and talented competitors. Mrs. Denney announced that Ben Bob Keller, Bobby Miller, Janet Rendleman, Martha Embree, and Taylor Smith would comprise the cast for "The Last Flight Over", the play chosen for the city one-act play contest.

Miss Cora Pearl Penn announced that the Virgil Medals, awarded each year to students who have made all A's through the study of Virgil, will be presented to Latin students Scott Granlund, Jane Wilkens, Alice Cowan, and Joel Williams.

Lamarites are looking forward to success in the various fields of Interscholastic League competition. Redskin speakers face the Interscholastic League and National Forensic League speech tourneys, hoping to put a top-notch finish on an already unexcelled year. Championships in track, tennis, golf, spelling, ready-writing, and swimming are also on the list of goals to be reached in the spring contests.

Queen Barbara Nash and King Rex McKeever will reign over the annual spring May Fete. In addition to the girls whom you have already met backstage of "1953-54 at Lamar", the following maids will also attend Their Majesties: Low Seniors—Mary Sue Goodere, Carolyn Eddleman, Carole Graham, and Fran Leland; High Juniors—Sue Braden, Shirley Zapp, Faye Veyon, and Fran Marye; Low Juniors—Patsy Dippel, Sue Sellors, Diane Roshton, and Carolyn McGhee; High Sophomores—Sally Schneider, Catherine Murphy, Jana McFarland, and Martha Craig; and Low Sophomores—Virginia Williams, Carol Vincent, Jimmy Nacol, and Betty Hart.

With all the hurry and bustle that goes into a production such as this, the curtain could never have risen without the invaluable aid of outside backers. Mr. Ralph Pelton and the Gulf Printing Company, and Mr. Guenter Oertel and the Baker Colorplate Company have helped us through endless proportions and proof-reading. Parsley Studios, Roulande Studios, and Provine Studios spent many an afternoon with a Lamarite who forgot to have his picture taken. Mr. Thomas Lawhon and his Activities Club publications committee have been most cooperative in offering help. The patience of Mrs. Ruth Leavell and Mrs. Ula Hennes with the Orenda staffers and their thousands of telephone calls was remarkable. Student photographers Tommy McIlhenny, Nat Turner, and Alfred Waddill have produced photos galore, and Henry Lichte's lettering on the May Fete pages was a job well done.

Two more understanding and capable sponsors could never be found. Experiences with minor literary and economic catastrophies became valuable training under the expert guidance of Miss Drew Staggs and Miss Helen Weinberg.

Now may I offer my personal thanks to a swell staff. Through their determination and cooperation, your 1954 Orenda has become a reality, the memories in its pages to be enjoyed now and cherished in the years to come.
